Commissioner Daniel Okada asked what the current orientation process is. Matt Perry noted once a youth is determined homeless, there is a SCOE staff specializing in working with these youth. Dave Gordon noted each district is required to keep a homeless youth coordinator on staff.

Commissioner Rachel Rios asked what attributes to the success of transition. Karen Wernecke is notified of youth who are close to being released and provides these youth with information on what steps need to be taken to get back in school. Probation officers are notified as well as the district the youth will be attending, to notify them they will be coming within the next day or two. Mike Shores noted the Education Based Supervision Model has taken root at five large school districts. He stated youth released from the Youth Detention Facility are sent to schools in various districts, i.e. placement youth, which depends on where the group home is located.
